STAGE SET FOR DRAMA FESTIVAL

Last minute adjustments are being made at the Community Theatre for tonight's opening of the B.C. Drama Festival. The immediate staff folding will be down by show time at 8 p.m. but only a few hours earlier Michael Irwin, festival stage manager, was clambering around the ceiling of the theatre checking lights. Critical Point Reached In Strike At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A critical point will be the last made tonight in the 26-day-old strike by Vancouver's outside workers following city council's offer Tuesday to send the dispute to mediation if 1,500 men return to work during talks.

Six aldermen voted in favor of work during mediation, three voted for mediation first and work later, and two were in favor of binding arbitration or no offers to the union at all.

Aldermen indicated following a 3½-hour council session the

Doctors' Fees May Rise In B.C. By 9.9 Per Cent

VICTORIA (CP)—Doctors' fees in British Columbia will likely be increased as much as 9.9 per cent on Jan. 1.

A spokesman for the B.C. Medical Association said Tuesday negotiations now are under way with the government-run B.C. Medical Plan, and the fee arrangement for that plan will apply to all persons in the province.

A unique agreement approved last June by the government and the medical association provides for an automatic 8.5 per cent fee increase Jan. 1.

It also provides for a further increase, to a maximum total of 9.9 per cent, based on average wages and consumer prices in Vancouver.

The last increase in doctors' fees was 3.7 per cent, in 1964.

The B.C. Medical Plan covers about 280,000 persons.

Surveyor To Settle Thursday

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Surveyor I, streaking toward a landing on the moon Thursday morning, carries not only a camera but U.S. hopes of making the first touchdown gentle enough for men to survive.

Surveyor is due to settle on a broad equatorial plain at 2:17 a.m. EDT Thursday and begin radioing pictures which will help scientists pick the safest sites for Apollo manned landings later this decade.

If everything works, Surveyor will take the first step toward the moon's surface. It will approach from 4,000 miles an hour to 100 miles an hour then drop gently the final 10 feet with less impact than a parachutist from an aircraft.

Russia's last - shaped Luna IX, which reached the lunar surface Feb. 3, apparently was ejected from a carrier vehicle at a height of several hundred feet.

Information and pictures recently released in Moscow indicate the fall probably would have been fatal to any unprotected human, said Dr. Thomas Yvelandovich of Jet Propulsion Laboratory which is guiding Surveyor on its 250,000-mile flight.

Crush-Malaysia Attempt Ended

BANGKOK (AP)—Indonesia and Malaysia formally agreed today to end a dispute opened in 1962 by President Sukarno in his "crush Malaysia" campaign.

They decided to work toward the establishment of diplomatic relations.

Sukarno launched his campaign against the Malaysian federation when it was formed in September, 1963.

The end came after three days of meetings between Deputy Prime Minister Tanaka Abul Razak of Malaysia and Foreign Minister Adam Malik of Indonesia. Malik had indicated before the meetings that the campaign had put Indonesia under economic and financial strain.

The two ministers acknowledged that problems still remained to be solved between the two Muslim nations, the most important possibly Indonesia's earlier demands for a new referendum in the Malaysian states of Sabah and Sarawak.

Officials said the two ministers exchanged notes containing outstanding issues that still have to be solved.

900 Teachers Quit P.Q. Jobs

QUEBEC (CP)—Representatives of Quebec City school boards said Tuesday night some 900 teachers have been accepted.

Nineteen of the 20 boards reported accepting the resignations. The secretary of the other board was absent. The 18 local and two regional school boards have jurisdiction over 30,000 students but do not include Quebec City.

The teachers decided Monday night to resign in protest over the refusal of the Chateauve school board to rehire Victor Dupont, president of the Quebec County Teachers' Association, for the next school year. Some 600 attended the meeting.

Spokesmen for the teachers said the board's refusal to rehire Mr. Dupont's contract results from his union activities, adding that the board had sent him a letter two weeks earlier congratulating him on his teaching work.

De Valera Top In Betting

DUBLIN (AP)—Eamon de Valera was a strong sentimental and political favorite today to win a second term as president of the Irish Republic in a "kid gloves" election.

The 83-year-old statesman virtually sat out the campaign and let his supporters take the stump making "Dev the Man" the sole issue to cap a career that began with his fight against the British to help found the republic.

NEW YORK (AP)—The price of mercury has plunged more than 50 per cent in the last year.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The sunny West Coast climate many Vancouverites boast about is apparently deteriorating.

A detailed study of weather patterns in Vancouver over the last 60 years shows the amount of sunshine has been dropping steadily since the Second World War—and the amount of rain has been increasing lately.

Jack Wright, head of the federal weather office here, said he began the study because of a public demand following the summer (not much sunshine) and winter (unusual amounts of snow and cold) of 1964.

Astronauts To Try Again: Would You Believe Friday?

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The hard-luck Gemini 9 flight was postponed two days today because of last-minute problems that prevented the Titan II rocket from being launched.

The space walk and rendezvous mission was re-scheduled for 9:28 a.m. EDT Friday.

The flight was called off at 12:40 p.m. with the astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan, sealed in their cramped Gemini 9 spacecraft stop the nine-story-tall Titan rocket.

The target satellite which the astronauts were to chase across space at 11 a.m. from another launching pad 4,600 feet away.

Count Resumed But Rejected Again

The countdown on the Titan II proceeded smoothly down to one minute, 40 seconds before the scheduled liftoff. Then a hold was called and the count was recycled to three minutes and holding when a new signal was rejected by a computer in the spacecraft.

The guidance signal was designed to adjust the computer so that it would steer the Titan into the proper path to begin the pursuit of the target.

The count was resumed twice in hope of sending the signal through but each time it was rejected.

In order to have caught the target today, the Titan should have been launched in a six-minute period ending at 12:46 p.m.

When it became apparent the condition could not be corrected in time, Mission Director William C. Schneider called the launch off for two days.

The reason is that the target satellite will not be in position for a pursuit until Friday morning.

Lesage Peers Into Future But Johnson Reviews Past

QUEBEC (CP)—Liberal Premier Jean Lesage pointed to the future and Daniel Johnson of the Union Nationale reviewed the past Tuesday night as both party leaders continued their campaigns for Sunday's provincial general election.

Mr. Lesage urged a rally of 900 in Montmagny to look ahead.

"Our collective duty is to find out what we can become, not to remain what we have been. There is nothing to reject in our past, but we are a young people with a whole world to build."

The premier said he preferred freedom and activity to "16 years of standing still"—a reference to the 16 years of Union Nationale administration before the Liberals came to power in 1960.

Mr. Johnson spoke in Trois-Rivieres, "the city which gave birth to the Union Nationale" in 1936. He drew cheers from an estimated 4,000 supporters—about half of whom managed to crowd into the auditorium—when he praised the party's founder, the late premier Maurice Duplessis.

The late premier had stood for Quebec autonomy in his day. It was a negative autonomy, but necessary "because it had to break down the resistance of a federal and provincial party which was the great violator of autonomy."

Mr. Johnson earlier addressed some 900 persons in Cap-de-la-Madeleine and was escorted to his night rally by several hundred supporters in a parade of 500 cars.

Still earlier, he told an overflow crowd of 600 in Nicolet he was not a Socialist but he felt that Quebec's proposed $200-million steel mill should be produced by the Union Nationale "invincibly owned."

Work crews have been engaged in construction of the floating piles, which supports the abutment sections for the Keweenaw bridge as they approach the shallow sections for the Keweenaw bridge on hydrographic race track July 15-17, 1958.

Naturally knew these obstacles were still there—until the crews were recently started extending the shoreline 50 feet.

The Kellowa airport is getting busier and busier all the time, with three regular flights a day bringing in an average of about 200 people daily.

Ralph Hermanson, airport manager, said today there is "real action" at the airport brought on by industrial development in the interior and the Columbia River project.

"The interior is booming so much that all traffic is bound to reach a great increase to go with the increase in business. Each day, about 150 reservations are received at the airport for flights in and out of Kellowa."

Mr. Hermanson said Kellowa is now on the map as a good servicing airport and people are making more use of it.

Canada's 1966 census starts today.

Throughout Canada census takers are knocking on doors asking five simple questions for the population census: nature of household, relationship to head of household, male or female, age at last birthday, single, married, widowed or divorced.

In Kelowna there are 26 people under the direction of census commissioner Mrs. C. M. Tuckeyman, taking population census. Ten people are taking the population and farm census, which has additional questions.

These computers will be of interest to governments at all levels, merchants and manufacturers.

For example, the number of married women in the 15 to 19 age bracket will give an indication of the country's birth rate in the next five years.

By the number of people who live alone, census officials will be able to find a greater number of married apartments should be built in the next 10 years.

Retiring Statesman Expresses Home Truths

Last week an outstanding Canadian made a striking speech in the Senate. Ninety-year-old Senator Thomas A. Crerar put into words what most Canadians are thinking.

The name Crerar may not mean a great deal to the younger generation of Canadians but he has been one of the outstanding Canadians of the past half-century. While he was not one who always opposed for the sake of opposing, he was nevertheless an individualist who supported what he thought to be right, regardless of party lines.

He was a Laurier Liberal from Manitoba, left that party to join the wartime union government of R. L. Borden, became the leader of the splinter Progressive party, and then enjoyed the confidence of Mackenzie King. In recent years he has been one of the country's most respected elder statesmen.

In his farewell speech in the Senate, he put into words what millions of Canadians are thinking. He said the two major party leaders should resign for the good of the nation; they both have served well in the past but which needs them no longer. The words, spoken by him, take on added meaning.

"I think if this change were made," he said, "and two new men came in to occupy these posts that we could once more establish that prestige that Parliament should build throughout the country."

Sound again like the spokesman for decentralization who led the Progressive movement to immense behind-the-scenes power after World War I, Senator Crerar also attacked Ottawa's refusal to give up the majority of its taxing powers to the provinces. In addition, he criticized the growing tendency to expand services, to spend and spend more, to ignore budget balancing, and to passionately embrace the welfare state philosophy. "Folly," he called Ottawa's extravagance. "Superstition," he called it.

The cost of government in Canada — "the most over-governed country in the world," said Senator Crerar — is and should be of major concern to the generation that will soon take over the reins of business and government. It must be refreshing for them to hear a 90-year-old statesman admit he is "old-fashioned enough to hold the view that no government should take a penny out of the taxpayers' pockets that it does not need."

"A mounting discontent among the people" are words worth writing 100 times on the nation's blackboard. Senator Crerar, old and wise in years, is young enough at heart to see the signs and give the warning and to offer the cure. Responsible and efficient government, and a return to vigorous leadership, would move us far along the road toward sense and solvency.

Mr. Crerar retires from the Senate this week. Would that many more of his calibre remained in the Senate and the House of Commons.

Teenagers and Money

(Ottawa Journal)

A news story says 24,000,000 American teenagers have $15,000,000,000 a year to spend or $625 apiece. What a wave of hard-times remitting that could set off among teenagers of all ages!

A survey found "allowances" for teenagers from parents ranged from a low of $1 up to $20 a week.

Canadians are more moderate in money matters but even people in their twenties hereabouts have profited immensely at the liberal amounts of money their teenaged brothers, sisters and cousins managed to spend in 1966 compared to themselves in 1956.

As for juvenies whose teenaged days pre-date the 1950s and other minty teens of the past the contrast is even more astounding.

Necessities vs. Luxuries

(Milwaukee Journal)

Most things are relative. That goes for necessities and luxuries. Yesterday's household frills become tomorrow's musts, one land's hovel is a castle somewhere else.

So it was no small assignment when the Milwaukee county welfare department recently decided to set down guidelines listing household items that, relatively speaking, are necessities and, therefore, could be given to a family on relief. The resulting document is four pages long and enumerates 151 items.

The kitchen is the most demanding room, calling for 65 items, all thoroughly described, down to the last egg beater, can opener and mixing bowl set (seven, eight and nine inch sizes). The living room can have a davenport. The bedroom an alarm clock, the bathroom a toothbrush holder and the laundry room six dozen clothespins.

If there's a baby in the house, the guidelines allow a "crib, stroller, high chair, play pen and potty chair."

The county welfare board, which reviewed the list, came up with a few practical additions, such as a plunger to unclog drains. On the other hand, one proposed frill, contour bed sheets, was eliminated. Citing his wife as authority, one county supervisor reported that when these tight fitting sheets tear, there's not enough material to sew them back together. Regular sheets were duly substituted.

Had the list been drawn up 20 years ago, nobody would have thought to include a 13 cubic foot refrigerator, range with thermostatically controlled oven and electric toaster—but they're on the list today. Who knows what might be on the list 20 years hence? Perhaps a color television set, automatic dishwasher and pastel Princess telephone!

Gay Paree Has Other Side Of Filthy, Sordid Slumland

PARIS (AP) — The back streets of any fashionable, sophisticated city in the world contain slums and hovels, but the squalor and misery of Paris' tenement communities compare with perhaps the worst in the world. Some 40,000 immigrant workers and their families inhabit 39 shantytowns that have no water facilities, no sewage disposal, no electricity or gas, and in most cases, no windows or doors. Telephones and toilets are beyond dreams.

The hovels are built of discarded doors, used lumber, tarpaper, corrugated metal and, occasionally, under block. They are disgustingly overcrowded.

AVERAGE 143 A HUT

Recently, when a fire consumed 10 of these shacks in Nanterre, a western Paris suburb, the official figure of those made homeless by the blaze was put at 143—an average of 143 a hut.

Nanterre is one of the worst, a jumble of ragged huts bunched on a hilltop, where, in the winter, chill winds blow across the treeless plain, mocking the makeshift handiwork of the residents.

Children play among the ubiquitous mounds of trash and junked automobiles. An occasional ragged scampers through the debris. The odor of sewage is overwhelming.

When it rains, the water runs under the walls and muddies dirt floors inside.

RENT IS HIGH

A worker may pay as much as $30—or about a quarter of his monthly wages—for one of these huts—by 12-hour stints.

The French call these shantytowns bidonvilles, literally, tin-can cities. The government has pledged itself to provide adequate housing for the immigrants.

But the mathematics of the equation suggest how difficult the job will be.

First, there is a critical housing shortage in France; it is not uncommon for three generations of a family to share the same rent-controlled apartment.

Last year 411,600 housing units were built in France. A little better than a quarter of these were low-rent apartments within reach of the French worker.

France maintains that housing construction is inadequate by half for the resident French population alone.

Workers from Algeria, Morocco, Spain and Portugal arrive in increasing numbers to meet the French demand for unskilled and semi-skilled labor.

ENTER ILLEGALLY

Many enter France illegally, a fact which draws a wink from French officials. The number of immigrant workers is 350,000, a figure expected to double by 1970.

The government now has plans for 500 dwelling units to relocate immigrants living in shantytowns.

Why do the immigrants settle in the bidonvilles?

A Portuguese worker in the Champigny shantytown, 10 miles southeast of the capital, said, "What can I do? There's no place else to go."

He jerked a thumb at the hovel behind him and said, "We do the best we can. But even so it's terrible."

The discontent in the bidonvilles has not been ignored by the French Communist party. The Portuguese worker said Communist party organizers had been around to see him and his countrymen.

"I told them I was not interested. I am just here for the money, not politics."

WASHINGTON CALLING

Great Space Act—But Encore Needed

By GORDON DONALDSON

WASHINGTON — Despite the galling failure of the last Gemini flight, the fourth near-catastrophe in seven months—I believe the United States will get a man on the moon within the next four years.

I say this after talking to space scientists and engineers on my latest trip to Cape Kennedy. I say it not because they're cheerful and confident and know what they're doing, but because some are depressed and wondering what they're going to do next.

Although there have been serious delays in the Gemini program since last year or early in 1965, six manned missions have been launched and there are four to go.

FIRST MOONSHIP

The first manned flight using the three-seater Apollo moonship should lift off late this year. A Saturn 1-B rocket, the biggest yet built, will carry the first three-man team into earth orbit.

Saturn five, the actual moon-rocket which will make Saturn 1-B look like a Chinese cracker, is to fly next year and carry men in 1968.

The U.S. is committed to go to the moon, even though some scientists say it's not worth the cost. The Apollo moonship program is conservatively reckoned to cost $25,000,000,000.

This is still slight compared with the annual U.S. defence budget of $12,000,000,000 but it's creeping up.

Unless NASA wants to set up scheduled passenger service to the moon, who wants to go? Its next dramatic objective must be the planets.

A Mars expedition would cost between $60,000,000,000 and $100,000,000,000 at today's prices and take 20 to 30 years to get there.

The U.S. Economy could afford this and would benefit from it, but the taxpayers, burdened by Viet Nam, are hardly in the right mood.

COSTLY EXPLOSION

Last fall they watched an Atlas-Agena rocket head off into the blue where it exploded at a cost of about $25,000,000 west of rockets and overhead.

Just before Christmas, a manned Gemini rocket ignited and then shutdown on its launching pad, sitting dangerously.

This spring Gemini accomplished part of its costly mission then went out of control and had to make a forced landing. Last week, it went another $25,000,000 Atlas-Agena.

Maybe, are inevitable and NASA can congratulate itself that it has yet to lose an astronaut.

The moon program is still more or less on schedule and incredible as it seems, three men will one day go there and come back.

But what will they do? an encore?

Enlarged Heart Just What It Says

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

You have never written concerning the meaning of an enlarged heart and its main causes. I don't smoke or drink. Is there any special way to take care of an enlarged heart? I am 65 and still working. — MRS. M.E.T.

Dear Lady, you must have been somewhere else on the days that I have discussed enlarged heart.

An enlarged heart is just what the words imply. The organ is bigger than normal. The principal causes are high blood pressure; disease or defects of the valves (often due to rheumatic fever); or certain Vitamin B deficiencies.

Whatever the specific cause, the heart is laboring under some difficulty that forces it to work harder to accomplish its task of pumping blood. Under such circumstances, the heart muscle thickens and enlarges just as other muscles tend to enlarge under continued stress.

An "enlarged" heart is not necessarily a weak one. It may have enlarged so successfully that it remains efficiently able to serve you well. It is even possible for the original cause of the enlargement to have been corrected in some way, so that although the enlargement remains it does not grow any greater.

In other instances, it may actually reduce in size. What to do about an enlarged heart—if anything—depends on the cause of the enlargement. In some instances limiting the amount of physical exertion, to keep the demand for circulation within the limits which the heart can support without too much strain, might be the only requirement.

Louisburg Trade Not Good For U.K.

By BOB BOWMAN

Some spectacular trades in hockey, football and baseball do not work out well. Edmonton, for instance, has not won many football games since trading Jackie Parker to the Argos. Neither have the Argos, for that matter.

Britain made a bad deal in 1763 by trading Louisburg, Nova Scotia to France for Madras, India. Yes, Louisburg only had about 4,000 people at that time, and Madras had millions. However, Louisburg was one of the strongest fortresses in the world, and commanded the sea-lanes to the St. Lawrence and New England.

When Britain decided to capture Canada during the Seven Years War, it was necessary to take Louisburg first. General Amherst was put in command of a strong army, with James Wolfe one of his brigadiers. Admiral Boscawen commanded the naval force. Amherst and Boscawen were close friends and worked well together.

The early morning of June 1, 1758, was foggy at Louisburg. Imagine the astonishment of its sentries when the fog lifted and they saw 39 British warships outside the harbor. The combined force of army and navy was about 24,000 men.

Louisburg was commanded by the Chevalier de Drucourt, a brave and stubborn fighter. He had about 8,000 men, and knew how to use them to best advantage. Nearly 2,000 of them were spread along the shore to try to repel the British landing. Amherst put Wolfe in charge of the assault on the beaches, and Wolfe led his troops through the breakers, saving his men. His men were able to find shelter from the French fire by hiding behind the rocks along the shore. Once the landing had been made, it was only a question of time until the fortress fell, as it did on July 27. Drucourt's stubborn defence made it necessary to postpone the attack on Quebec until the following year.

There is an interesting point about the campaign against Louisburg. In view of the recent find by archaeologists of coins worth hundreds of thousands of dollars during the action, Admiral Boscawen ordered a French supply ship, Vigilante, into coming too close. There was a sharp action in which Vigilante was either captured or sunk. If the Vigilante went down with all the money to pay the 6,000 troops at Louisburg, there's more gold on the ocean floor!

TODAY in HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

June 1, 1966 . . .

Although no particular naval skill was demonstrated, the sea battle fought between Britain and France 172 years ago today—in 1794—was the first of a series called the Glorious First of June by the victorious British. It was the first time a big French fleet had challenged control of the Channel in the Napoleonic wars and a stiff fight was put up off the cape of Ushant. The French lost seven ships and 3,000 men and were driven back to Brest, losing as well a convoy of grain from the United States.

1912—H.M.S. Shannon captured the U.S.S. Chesapeake.

1916—Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., opened.

First World War
Fifty years ago today—in 1916—the German fleet escaped British pursuit off Jutland and returned to harbor. Russians in the Caucasus evacuated Mamkhatun, as the Turks advanced. Austria announced taking 31,000 Italian prisoners.

Second World War
Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941—an armistice was arranged between British in Iraq and pro-Nazi forces, whose leader had fled. The loss of HMS Salamis, a merchant cruiser, was announced. The R.A.F. claimed 154 German fighters shot down in May.

BATS OUTNUMBER MEN
There are estimated to be 3,500,000 bats living in Madrid, the capital of Spain, with 2,000,000 humans.

Marichal Has Bad Night But Wins Tenth Straight

By JIM MACKLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

Juan Marichal was tired. His elbow was hurting. His control was off, and he gave up the astounding total of three walks in his eighth and ninth innings. But he won.

The high-achieving right-hander, despite the fatigue and ailing arm and off-form pitching, ran his perfect record to 10-0 Tuesday night in San Francisco. Giants 5-3 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

Marichal managed to double home the Giants' first two runs in the 19th. He then pitched through six innings, and recorded his ninth complete game in 11 starts. But he was tagged for two homers by Leo Cardenas, in the seventh, and his scoreless earned run average zoomed to 0.50 from 0.30.

Marichal made a 4-0 with a homer in the seventh, giving Marichal the edge he needed to survive Cardenas' late-game slugging.

By winning the Giants kept their National League lead at 2½ games over Los Angeles Dodgers, who made it seven victories in their last eight games with a 6-2 decision over Atlanta Braves.

Elsewhere St. Louis Cardinals won their fourth straight, beating Houston Astros 3-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Ray Washburn and Hal Woodeshick. Bill White led Philadelphia Phillies over New York Mets 6-4 while Chicago Cubs snapped their four-game losing streak by beating Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1.

It Took 17 Long Innings For Cleveland's 7-5 Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Writer

Cleveland Indians outlasted California Angels through 17 innings Tuesday night for a 7-5 decision in the longest American League game of the season so far and rookie California outfielder Rick Reinhardt posted an unenviable record during the marathon.

The bug hit was a bases-loaded single in the top of the 17th off lower Dean Chance by Pedro Gonzalez after one-out singles by Vic Davalillo and Chuck Hanson and an intentional walk to Leon Wagner.

Chance came on in the 15th inning, after Bob Lee had held the Indians to two hits from the eighth through the 14th innings. Steve Hanson, who replaced Cleveland starter Sonny Siebert in the seventh, blanked the Angels until the 11th and picked up his first victory of the year. The Angels scored a run after two were out in the 17th but Luis Tiant came in to get the last out.

Reinhardt tied a major league strikeout record for an extra-inning game by fanning six batters. The mark was set by Carl Wetman of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1913, and matched by Don Hoas of Pittsburgh in 1956.

The Orioles rocked loser Camilo Pascual and three successors for 15 hits, including a three-run triple by Dave Johnson. Andy Etchebarren also drove in three runs with a homer and double.

Browns Robinson doubled in two runs for the Orioles, boosting his league-leading RBI total to 42, while Luis Aparicio hit a two-run homer.

Kansas City's Fred Talbot, given ninth-inning help by reliever Lew Krause, checked the Tigers while Danny Cater, with three hits, and Mike Herberger, with two, paced the Athletics' attack. Cater and Herberger each drove in two runs and Larry Stahl cracked a homer off lower Bill Montout.

The Red Sox snapped Chicago's shutout string at 30 innings when Tony Conigliaro homered off Joel Horlen in the second, then held off the White Sox behind southpaw Don Stigman, who scattered seven hits.

OUT FOR YEAR

Shortstop Ron Hansen of Chicago White Sox probably will be sidelined the rest of the season because of a ruptured spinal disc, it was disclosed Tuesday. The injury was discovered in a test at Mercy Hospital, and Dr. Joseph Coyle, team physician, said Hansen must undergo surgery. Hansen, 26, hurt his left ankle on opening day. His left leg grew progressively more painful as he continued to play, and he left the Sox lineup May 14. The club placed Hansen on the emergency disabled list. Since Hansen's departure, Al Wells and rookie Lee Elia have alternated at shortstop.

Molson Favors Withdrawal
EDMONTON (CP)—Senator Hartland said Molson, chairman of the board of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, says he favors withdrawal of Canada's national hockey team and withdrawal from world competition until that competition becomes honest.

He says he feels this way because Canadian amateurs will never beat European amateurs. The European players, he said, are really professionals because they work only at hockey. They cannot be classed as amateurs in the same sense as the students on the Canadian team.

Senator Molson said the only solution is to have Canada's best professionals play Europe's best professionals, and we have no intention of playing them unless they play our rules.

British Cars Should Win Annual Players 200 Race

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP)—American drivers in the British-built cars powered by United States engines are expected to dominate the Player's 200 race for sports cars here Saturday.

Among the 41 drivers seeking to share the $33,000 and the Player's Cup will be 27 Americans including Dayton and Sebring winner Ken Miles from California, Charlie Hayes of Rockville, Md., winner at Laguna Seca, Calif., and Chuck Parsons of Carmel, Calif., current leader on the U.S. road-racing championship circuit.

All three commonwealth entries are threats. New Zealanders Bruce McLaren and Chris Amon are racing Oldsmobiles. McLaren won the 200 in 1964 in another car of his own design. Jackie Stewart of Dunbarton, Scotland, who looked a winner until the late stages of the Indianapolis 500 Monday, will drive a Ford-powered Lola T70.

Canada's hopes lie in German-born Ludwig Heimrath who finished last year's 200 third behind winner John Surtees of London, 1964 world champion, and Texan Jim Hall, winner of the 1965 Canadian Grand Prix. Heimrath, who runs a garage in Toronto, will drive a Ford-powered McLaren with the number 39, a hangover from his Porsche racing days.

The race over the twisting 2.5-mile road circuit at Mosport, 45 miles northeast of Toronto, will be run in two 100-mile heats.

The Canadian Racing Drivers' Association, a race-organizer, plan an Indianapolis-type start with a pace car leading the competitors once around the track before the green flag drops.

The 200, which drew 58,312 fans last year—largest sports crowd in Canadian history—will provide starting money of $40,000 with an additional $13,000 in purses. The winner can pull down a maximum of $4,200 in purses money and no less than he was stricken in his paddock seat.

British Cars Should Win Annual Players 200 Race

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP)—American drivers in the British-built cars powered by United States engines are expected to dominate the Player's 200 race for sports cars here Saturday.

Among the 41 drivers seeking to share the $33,000 and the Player's Cup will be 27 Americans including Dayton and Sebring winner Ken Miles from California, Charlie Hayes of Rockville, Md., winner at Laguna Seca, Calif., and Chuck Parsons of Carmel, Calif., current leader on the U.S. road-racing championship circuit.

All three commonwealth entries are threats. New Zealanders Bruce McLaren and Chris Amon are racing Oldsmobiles. McLaren won the 200 in 1964 in another car of his own design. Jackie Stewart of Dunbarton, Scotland, who looked a winner until the late stages of the Indianapolis 500 Monday, will drive a Ford-powered Lola T70.

Special Interest Reported In Detroit's Sales Showing

NEW YORK (AP)—Special interest was focused last week on reports from Detroit on mid-May automobile sales.

When reports of a drop in sales in the first 10 days of May were announced, the stock market slumped and apprehension about the business outlook spread.

This time, the report on sales didn't create much of a ripple. That was because the results could be interpreted two ways: A gain over early May and a decline from a year earlier.

Mid-May sales of new cars totaled 247,000, an increase of nearly 50,000 over early May put down about 33,000 from a year earlier.

Top Ford executives predicted that passenger car sales including imports, would total 9,900,000 this year, second only to record 1965 when 9,900,000 were sold.

Another analysis of the outlook was the report by the census bureau that American consumers intend to buy almost as many cars through next April as during the past year.

The proportion of households reporting intentions in April to purchase a new or used car within 12 months was 18.7 per cent, compared with 18.6 per cent during the April, 1965, survey.

New car purchases were intended by 9.3 per cent of the households, the same as in last year's survey.

Intentions to buy new cars within six months were also about the same as a year earlier—4.6 per cent last month, compared with 4.7 per cent in 1965.

Passenger car production declined this week to an estimated 183,100 from 194,428 last week and 199,083 a year ago.

Production for the year to date totaled 1,666,770 against 1,606,146 at this time last year.

Steel industry leaders at the New York meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute generally agreed the steel business continues to boom and may set records for production and shipments this year.

Leading U.S. workingmen, president of U.S. Steel Corp., predicted steel production will be a little larger than last year, when it totaled 131,100,000 tons.

Edmund F. Martin, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., was a little more cautious, forecasting production of about 120,000,000 tons.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
Though not exciting, job and business affairs should run fairly well now, but it will be important to use caution in financial matters. There is a tendency toward extravagance, but to indulge it would be foolishly, since stars indicate that you may be faced with some unexpected expenses.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, as of now, you should, without delay, put postponed plans involving career and financial matters into operation. Not only have you just entered a period, lasting until July 15th, which will be unusually auspicious for launching new programs along both these lines—looking for results, not in the immediate future but within two years—but, also, as of the first week in May, you entered a most generous 8-month cycle during the current year. Monetary matters will be under especially beneficial influences during July, August and September, and job matters should show unusual progress within the next ten days and in early August. Then, for the balance of 1966, in late October and late November. Where early 1967 is concerned, look for another good cycle to advance your financial interests between February 1st and April 15th, and career progress in February and March. Most inspirational and profitable—periods for creative workers. Early August, late September, the first and last weeks of October, next January and March.

Even though your chart indicates that your material interests will outshine those of a personal nature during the next 12 months, you still have much happiness to look forward to along these lines. Social activities, for instance, should prove unusually stimulating this month, in late September, early October, late November and the weeks between December 30th and February 10th. Romance will be governed by generous stars in late November, next April and March and, though you may not travel much, short trips taken in September, next January and/or May should prove highly enjoyable.

A child born on this day will be endowed with the qualities needed to make an excellent reporter, editor, musician or physician (especially in the field of mental illness).

TRY AND STOP ME

By Bennett Cerf

SAINT SUBBER is a youngish producer with two smash hits on Broadway at the same time: "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple." Between trips to the bank to deposit his loot, Subber took time out to recall a less-prosperous period—not so long ago, either—when he made his one and only appearance as an actor. "It truly was an uplifting experience," he insists. "I was required to be on stage when the curtain rose for Act One of a farce called 'The More the Merrier.' Opening night, unfortunately, I was standing too near the curtain when it went up. It caught my belt in the rear, and I went right up with it. There I hung at the top of the stage framework, hollering for help. They lowered the curtain and started all over again—but my debut proved to be my farewell performance at the same time!"

Martha Foley, who conducts a highly-regarded writing class at her studio in Gramercy Park, doesn't think a good writer must necessarily have an academic background to speed him on his way. "It's particularly difficult to grade an imaginative writer properly. I couldn't tolerate it myself. Remember that William Faulkner got a D at the University of Mississippi. Robert Sherwood couldn't get through Freshman English at Harvard. And poor James Thurber even flunked botany!"

Burlington Manager Hailed into Court: "Who says my clients are uncovered? Every one of those kids is covered fully—by insurance."
